THE BOSTON MORNING POST.

PUBLISHED DAILY, AT NO. 21, WATER STREET, BY CHARLES GORDON GREENE.

VOLUME V.—NO. 107. FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 17, 1834. PRICE $4 PER ANN. IN ADVANCE.

From Tom Cringle's Log.

Cringle and his companions, Bang and others are in St. Domingo, for some purposes, which it is unnecessary to explain, and in the solitude of the mountain scenery the following touch of superstition and sea sentimentality occurs. We shall give it the title of Bang's Confessions :—

Had I lived before the Roman conquest I would have been a Druid, for it is not under the echoing domes of our magnificent cathedrals, with all the grandeur of our ritual, the flaming tapers, and bands of choristers, and the pealing organ, and smoking censers, and silver-toned bells, and white-robed priests, that the depths of my heart are stirred up. It is here, and not in a temple made with hands, however gorgeous—here, in the secret places of the everlasting forest,—it is in such a place as this that I feel the immortal spark within me kindling into a flame, and wavering up heavenward. I am superstitious, Thomas, I am superstitious, when left alone in such a scene as this. I can walk through a country churchyard at midnight, and stumble amongst the rank grass that covers the graves of those I have lived with and loved, even if they be "green in death, and festering in their shrouds," with the wind moaning amongst the stunted yew-trees, and the rain splashing and scattering on the moss-covered tombstones, and the blinding blue lightning flashing, while the headstones glance like an arrow of sheeted ghosts, and the thunder is grumbling overhead, without a qualm—direness of this kind cannot once daunt me; —it is here and now when all nature sleeps in the ardent noontide, that I become superstitious, and would not be willingly left alone. Thoughts too deep for tears!—aye, indeed, and there be such thoughts, that, long after time has allowed them to subside, and when, to the cold eye of the world, all is clear and smooth above, will, when stirred up, like the sediment of this fountain of the wood, discolour and embitter the whole stream of life once more, even after the lapse of long, long years.

When my heart-crushing loss was recent—when the wound was green, I could not walk abroad at this to me witching time of day, without a stock or a stone, a distant mark on the hill-side, or the outline of the grey cliff above, taking the very fashion of her face, or figure, on which I would gaze, and gaze, as if spell-bound, until I knew not whether to call it a grouping of the imagination, or a reality from without—of her, with whom I fondly hoped to have travelled the weary road of life. Friends approved—fortune smiled—one little month, and we should have been one; but it pleased Him, to whom in my present frame of mind I dare not look up, to blight my beautiful flower, to canker my rose-bud, to change the fair countenance of my Elisabeth, and send her away. She drooped and died, even like that pale flower under the scorching sun; and I was driven forth to worship Mammon, in these sweltering climes; but the sting remains, the barbed arrow sticks fast."

Here the cleared surface of the water, into which he was steadily looking, was gradually contracted into a small round spot about a foot in diameter, by the settling back of the green floating matter that he had skimmed aside. His countenance became very pale; he appeared even more excited than he had hitherto been.

"By heavens! look in that water, if the green covering of it has not arranged itself round the clear spot in the shape of a medallion—into her features! I had dreamed of such things before, but now it is a palpable reality—it is her face—her straight nose—her Grecian upper lip—her beautiful forehead, and her very bust!—even,

'As when years apace
Had bound her lovely waist with woman's zone.

Oh, Elizabeth—Elizabeth!"

Here his whole frame shook with the most intense emotion, but at length, tears, unwonted tears, did come to his relief, and he hid his face in his hands, and wept bitterly. I was now convinced he was mad, but I durst not interrupt him. At length he slowly removed his hands, by which time, however, a most beautiful small black diver, the most minute species of duck that I ever saw—it was not so big as my fist—but which is common in woodland ponds in the West Indies, had risen to the centre of the eye of the fountain, while all was so still that it floated quietly like a leaf on the water, apparently without the least fear of us.

'The devil appeared in Paradise under the shape of a cormorant,' said Mr Bang, half angrily, as he gazed sternly at the unlooked for visitor; 'what imp art thou?'

Tip—the little fellow dived; presently it rose again in the same place, and lifting up its little foot, scratched the side of its tiny yellow bill and little red-spotted head, shook its small wings, bright and changeable as shot silk, with a snow-white pen-feather in each, and then tipped up its little purple tail, and once more disappeared.

Aaron's features were gradually relaxing—a change was coming over the spirit of his dream. The bird appeared for the third time, looked him in the face, first turning up one little sparkling eye, and then another, with its neck changing its hues like a pigeon's. Aaron began to smile—he gently raised his stick—"Do you cock your fud at me, you tiny thief, you?"—and thereupon he struck it with his stick. Tip—the duck dived, and did not rise again; and all that he got was a sprinkling shower in the face, from the water flashing up at his blow, and once more the green covering settled back again, and the bust of his dead love, or what he fancied to be so, disappeared. Aaron laughed outright, arose, and began to shout to the black guide, who, along with Pegtop, had taken the beasts into the wood in search of provender. "Ayez le bonte de donnez moi mon cheval? Bringibue the horsos, Massa Bungo, venga los quadrupedos—make haste—vite, mucho, mucho."

Come, there is my Massa Aaron once more, at all events, thought I; but oh, how unlike the Aaron of five minutes ago!

"So, now let us mount, my boy," said he, and we shoved along, and presently the sun bid us goodby, very abruptly, I will confess. "Cheep, cheep," sung the lizards—"chirp, chirp," sung the crickets—"snore, snore," moaned the tree toad—and it was night.

WATER PROOF BOOTS.—SAWYER & GOODNOW, No 251, Washington street, (six doors south of the Marlboro' Hotel,) have just received and for sale, a prime lot of Water Proof Boots.
Also, men and boys cowhide and calf Boots, of all kinds. tf n 21

THE MORNING POST.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 17, 1834.

The power of the Bank—After Gen. Jackson had vetoed the bill re-chartering the U. S. Bank, in 1832, it was contended by the friends of the Bank that the then coming election would be a test of public opinion on this subject. If the people should re-elect Gen. Jackson, that would be proof of their hostility to the Bank—if they were for the Bank, then they would reject Gen. Jackson. Well, the trial came, Mr Clay, the Bank candidate, received but 49, of the 288 electoral votes—what did the Bank then say? Simply to unsay what they had before asserted—that the election was no test. The election of a new Congress has since taken place, and resulted in the return of a majority of 35 pledged to go against the Bank; but some of these have already forfeited their pledges, betrayed the trust of their constituents, and become, instead of the representatives of the people, the advocates of the Bank. We forbear to suggest the means by which these conversions may have been effected—nor can any one foretel where they will stop. The renewal of the charter is worth a bonus of from 15 to 20 millions of dollars. Some of the most wealthy and respectable citizens of Boston OFFERED CONGRESS A BONUS OF TWENTY MILLIONS two years ago, for a charter like the present, with a capital of fifty millions—and Congress itself asked a bonus of three millions for the renewal in 1832. It is seen, then, that the Bank can afford to apply great means to effect its objects. How far it may be restrained by scruples, may be estimated from its past and present conduct.

Its majority in the Senate of the United States is only obtained by fourteen members of that body, misrepresenting their constituents. Since the removal of the Deposites the elections in Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Ohio, have given the sanction of the people to this wise measure; and yet the Bank with a perseverance and an assurance worthy of a better cause, is pushing its claims and carrying on the warfare with renewed vigor. That monied men and monied corporations should cling to it, as a nucleus, for a permanent monied aristocracy, is not to be wondered at; but that men of middling property—the working and producing classes, should for a moment lend it any aid, can only be accounted for on the supposition that they are not correctly and fully informed in regard to the true merits of the question.

Extraordinary.—The Senate of the United States, many of whose members entirely misrepresent the opinion of their States, and betray the trust reposed in them, have neglected to act on the nomination of the Government Directors in the Bank of the United States, now before them. The consequence is, that the United States, owning a fifth of all the stock of the Bank, is not permitted to know anything of the transactions of this great machine of political power. This is another notable instance of the despotism and recklessness of the monied aristocracy.

"The premonitory symptoms of dissolution are upon us."—Clay's Speech.

This is, if possible, more impious than Mr Clay's invocation of the curses of "war, pestilence, and famine" upon the country which gave him birth, and which is the kind mother of us all. Our country is the pride of the world—our citizens are in the enjoyment of peace, plenty, and freedom. The United States are the object of the admiration and hope of the friends of liberal principles throughout the earth. Yet this desperate man, following the blind impulse of his own bad passions, and misguided and disappointed ambition, breathes out maledictions against our happy and beloved country, and impiously denying the blessings Providence is showering upon us, declares that "the premonitory symptoms of dissolution are upon us." How different is the furious outpourings of the "wounded spirit" of Mr Clay, from the patriotic sentiments of the Republican Governor of Maine, in his late message to the Legislature of that State. Governor Dunlap, after speaking in terms of thankfulness to Providence—for "the tranquil state of public affairs, the general prosperity attending individual enterprise," and the blessings of education diffused among the people, closes his message in the following appropriate and beautiful manner:—

"In closing this communication, permit me, gentlemen, to congratulate you on the increased stability which the Union of the States has derived during the past political year, from events which seemed for a time to threaten its integrity. The wisdom, firmness, and moderation with which they were controlled, by the vigilant and patriotic Chief Magistrate of our National Government, without compromiting the constitutional rights of the States, justly merit the gratitude and applause of the American people.

Let us, also, in the stations we respectively occupy, look to our written constitutions as the sure guide of all our proceedings, and to the popular voice for all needful direction therein. Confiding in the intelligence and patriotism of the people, let us not be unmindful that to them are we responsible for the just exercise of the powers entrusted to us. And while, as the guardians of a highly favored community, we act together for the public welfare, let us unitedly implore the Supreme Disposer of human events, that He will so control all our deliberations, as to preserve unimpaired our inestimable privileges, and the principles of our representative government forever."

ROBERT P. DUNLAP.

COUNCIL CHAMBER, AUGUSTA, January 2, 1834.

A public meeting has been held in Norfolk, Va., at which Mr Tazewell presided, of citizens opposed to the removal of the deposites from the U. S. Bank.

The Court of Common Pleas now in session at Bangor, numbers upon its docket 1700 actions! and some very bad actions, we dare say.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Thursday, Jan. 16—IN THE SENATE, very little business was done. Bills, to increase the capital of the Boston and Lowell Rail Road Company, and making further provisions for attachment of Real Estate in certain cases, were reported.

IN THE HOUSE, several petitions were presented, among them one from the Berkshire Medical Institution for a grant of $5000—and one from sundry persons for incorporation as the Roxbury Chemical Laboratory

Letters announcing their acceptance were received from several Councillors elect.

Messrs. Greenwood, Allen of Worcester and Darling of Greewich, were appointed a Committee to enquire into the manner in which the law authorizing the grant of 200 acres of land, or $50 in money to soldiers of the Revolution, had been carried into effect; and to ascertain what grants in land and what in money—have been made to the soldiers, and what to the agents or attorneys, &c.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, on Monday, a letter was presented by the Vice President from the Secretary of the Treasury, in which the Secretary says, in relation to the duty upon cottons, that "under the construction of the law, as given by the Department in the Circular Letter of April last, the duties on manufactures of Cotton, or of which Cotton shall be a component part, are to be calculated according to the act of July 14th, 1832, and the act of the 2d of March, 1833, reducing the duty, will operate upon the rate of duty calculated on the minimum principle; and instructions will further be given to the Collectors accordingly.

No decision has been made by the Department since that of April 20th, 1833, before referred to.

I understand from the Comptroller that his instructions were intended by him to carry into effect that decision, according to what he supposed to be its intention.

Mr Clay laid upon the table the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be directed to inquire into the expediency of affording temporary relief to the community from the present pecuniary embarrassment, by prolonging the payment of Revenue Bonds, as the they fall due, the obligors paying interest and giving satisfactory security.

The House was principally occupied in discussing Mr Fletcher's memorial, the dismissed Clerk; Governor Davis made a speech, so did Mr Chilton, and several others, but the whole business was ended by laying the memorial upon the table. Yeas 120, Nays 83.—A hard pill for the opposition.

"The Six Degrees of Crime," Mr Hill's new play, is a most spirited and attractive piece. Notwithstanding the imperfections unavoidably incident upon its first representation, it was received by an immense audience with enthusiastic tokens of approbation. The life, vivacity, and elegance of the first and second parts, the despair and desperation of the third and fourth, the horrible crimes they lead to in the fifth, and the natural consequences of such depravity as pourtrayed in the sixth and last part, present a variety of character and passion which we never before saw embodied in any other play. There is a most excellent and evident moral pervading the whole of it, which is one of its highest recommendations. It has been advertised for representation, in consequence of its remarkable success, every evening, until further notice. The actors did themselves much credit in their performance. They were all deserving of high commendations, and particularly Mrs Asbury, Miss Pelby, and Mr Hill.

Tremont Theatre.—The Wreck Ashore continues to be acted at this theatre with success. It is from the pen of the author of the "Rent Day," and several other productions, well known as great favorites with the majority of the play going public. It will be repeated to-night, with the Man in the Moon, and the Marshpee Indians will witness the performance.

A Pennsylvania editor says of a brother printer, whom he dubbs "Mister Parafaragaramoose," that he has "no enemies among the masculine gender of humanity, for they can neither envy his youth, appearance, or lack of good sense: and 'the tender ones' will scarcely quarrel with Misery and Old Age, 'whilst yet afar off!' It ought to be against the law to twit upon facts in Pennsylvania; and if we were "Mister Parafaragaramoose, we'd put it to the Union Times" in real nullification style.

To Correspondents.—We are overloaded with communications of every description; but owing to our limited space, we cannot gratify our correspondents, ourselves, or the public, with the publication of but a very small portion of them—therefore, those who may find their productions omitted, must not impute the omission to any cause but our total inability to publish their favors, for the reason above assigned.

A minister residing in the vicinity of Stamford, Conn. with a woman he was married to about four months ago, was called upon a few days since, by a former wife and a brood of children direct from England, from whom he had run away, leaving her and the little ones destitute. His name is John Strickland.

Buenos Ayres.—The British Packet of the 9th November, states that the Oriental schr. Agulia Primera, from Africa, had landed 229 slaves (mostly 8 to 10 years old!) at Santa Lucia, a small river to lea. W. of Montevideo, where she had arrived.

An old man, Francis Tailler, formerly a Parisian merchant, attempted to commit suicide in New York, on Saturday last, by cutting his throat. He was sent to the hospital, where upwards of $900 were found in his possession.

Does the Editor of the Boston Atlas court an investigation of "private worth?" If he does, let him "go ahead."

Stage Accident.—The Catskill stage upset in descending a hill near Coxsackie, on Wednesday night, in consequence of which, Judge Bigelow, of Bainbridge, Chenango county, had three of his ribs broken and was otherwise seriously injured.

A motion has been made in the Legislature of Maryland, to abolish the Lottery system in all its Branches.

From the Salem Advertiser.

NEWBURYPORT, January 10, 1834.

Messrs. Palfray and Cook—

Gentlemen,—I have been gratuitously furnished with the "Boston Mercantile Journal" of the 8th instant, containing the following communication, to which my attention was specially called:—

From the Mercantile Advertiser.

COUNTER TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

Mr. Editor,—I have often heard that President Jackson is not intemperate in the use of ardent spirits, if he is in any thing else. Now, sir, will you tell me whether he would not, in your opinion, reform any man who opposes the temperance reformation. If you think he would, I will write to him, and inform him that a Collector of the Customs for a District not a hundred miles from Newburyport, lately prevailed upon half a dozen men to leave the Stage House at Topsfield, kept by Mrs. Cummings, without tasting food, though they were all hungry as sharks, and an excellent dinner was smoking on the table, because the landlady declined furnishing said Collector with a glass of grog!—that article having been banished from the house for two years.

T. C.

I learn that, an impression prevails that this article was directed against me. With what motive, and in what temper I shall not now concern myself. The purpose of this letter, is, to meet the allegations made by T. C. (so far as they were intended to be applied to me) with a flat and positive denial; and I hereby pronounce them to be utterly false. I never had an interview like that above alluded to, with the respectable landlady of the Topsfield Hotel, or any of her household, and I never withdrew in resentment from her house or table. On the other hand, it has been my practice, for several years to call at the place in question by myself or with my friends, perfectly aware of the regulations of the house.

Very respectfully,
Your Obt. Serv't.
SAMUEL PHILIPS.

☞ We are unable to account for this wanton assault upon Mr. Phillips, a more gentlemanly or amiable man, or one whose private character is purer, cannot be found within the bounds of the State. A base calumniator is worse than a drunkard.

A voice from New Jersey!—The following Resolutions have been passed by the Legislature of New Jersey, by large majorities:—

Resolved, That we view with agitation and alarm, the existence and gigantic power of a great monied incorporation, which threatens to embarrass the operations of the government, and by means of its unbounded influence upon the currency of the country, to scatter distress and ruin throughout the community, and we therefore solemnly believe the present Bank of the United States ought not to be re-chartered.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress, be instructed, and our members of the House of Representatives be requested to sustain, by their votes and influence, the course adopted by the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr Taney, in relation to the Bank of the United States, and the deposites of the Government moneys, believing, as we do, the course of the Secretary, to have been constitutional, and that the public good required its adoption.

Intrepidity.—On Wednesday last, while a number of boys were skating on the Hudson, opposite Cold Spring, one of them a son of Mr Henry Whaley, fell into a hole about twenty feet square. Some of the boys ran to to the shore, distant about eighty rods, to procure a plank; those that remained seeing that the boy could not support himself until their return, boldly resolved to risk their own lives to save his. The following plan was adopted: the lightest boy laying down, crawled towards the edge of the hole, the next lightest holding him by the feet, and the third holding the second. In this manner they proceeded, the ice bending under them fearfully, but they rescued their comrade and evinced a self-devotion and fearlessness of danger seldom met among their seniors. Their names are William Conk, Saml. J. Ferris, and John M'Keet.—N. Y. Standard.

The Alabama question, about which Mr Lewis, a member of Congress from that State, made such a noise the other day, appears to have been very satisfactorily terminated. A good understanding on the subject had been effected between Governor Gayle and Mr Key, the agent of the General Government, at the moment that the orator was letting off his diatribes. Governor Gayle, on the 20th of December, sent a message to the Alabama Legislature, accompanied by copies of his correspondence with the agent and with the Secretary of War. The message announces the controversy to be at an end.—N. Y. Post.

To the Editor of the Mercantile Journal and others of Boston.

The liberal donation so kindly extended by you, has been placed in my hands, and calls for my sincere thanks. I am now old, and have little to offer but the kindest wishes of an old man for your prosperity and happiness here, and his fervent prayers for your welfare hereafter. I do not know that these desires will avail much, but they will be among the latest and strongest which I shall entertain in this life.

Your grateful friend,
PETER EDES.

The present King of Bavaria's ruling predilections are said to have been numerous and engrossing. In early life he was a professed antiquary, travelled in Greece, and effected the purchase of a large portion of the Ægina marbles. He next became a patriot, then a man of letters, and a Liberal, then, although extremely deaf, "a fanatico per la musica," then a Catholic, restoring monasteries. His Majesty is stated to affect great eccentricity—he is in the habit of entering the beer-shops of his capital, which being of about the extent of Leeds, his person is universally known, calling for half a pitcher of "Baierlsche bier," and receiving the change out of his florin.

Wonders in Natural History—In the north of Scotland, according to the Inverness Courier, the foxes have taken to sheep-hunting. When lamb is scarce, and they can dine on mutton, it seems they chase the sheep over precipices, and then go below themselves, and regale off the hash they find ready prepared by the fall!

Among the modes of attraction enjoined to Persian females is this: "Let their crimson-tinted toes be exposed, in order that the young men may see and admire them with wounded hearts."

A man named James M'Comb, aged 34 years, who was employed as a journeyman in Mr Hagar's type foundry, committed suicide on Saturday by taking laudanum.

There were 209 convicts in the Ohio Penitentiary on the 15th November, 1833—17 of whom were foreigners, and the others natives of twenty different States.

A hint—An India rubber dress worn by a Philadelphia fireman, stood a three hours' renching without the lining being wet.

POLICE COURT.

Jonas Pierce, (alais Walton, &c. &c.) the supposed highwayman, was arraigned yesterday afternoon, upon complaint of Jabez Boyden, of Dedham, for robbing him on the highway, on the evening of December 21, 1833:

Jabez Boyden.—About 5 on said evening, on Brigham's hill, as I was going at a good trot, felt some one take hold the back part of my wagon, and request to ride—slacked the horse, and he whipped round in front, and when near the forward wheel, on the left, presented a pistol to my breast, and said, "Your money or your life." I told him calmly I had none for him—I had $40.—He kept the pistol at my breast, and demanded my pocket book. I saw a man a hundred rods off, and thinking it might be an accomplice, I gave up all idea of resistance. I was some time in getting my pocket book out, and he said, "Be quick, or I'll fire." I then gave up the wallet. He then lowered his pistol, remained standing, and I rode off—met the man I suspected of being an accomplice, but did not know him. I feel a strong conviction that the prisoner is the man that robbed me—I see the same expression in his eyes now, that I saw then—his features and complexion conforms—his general appearance is the same.

John Mitchell, (of Dedham)—about 5 on said evening, on Dedham turnpike, near the place mentioned by Boyden, when going towards Roxbury village, met a man in a wagon, resembling Mr Boyden—five minutes after, a man, about the height of prisoner, passed me, running about the natural gait of a horse—I stopped to see what he was going to do—had on a dark colored cloak.

John Simonds—On the 21st December, the prisoner hired my horse—said he was going to Brighton to see about some cattle—returned between 10 and 11—gave his name as Burley Grove.

Upon this evidence, Pierce was fully committed for trial, at the February term of the Supreme Court, the offence not being bailable.

Pierce was immediately arraigned again, for his attempt to rob Mr John Fenno, Jr., in Chelsea, on Thursday evening, 9th inst:

Mr Fenno.—My partner, John F. Payson, and myself, were riding home in a wagon, a few minutes after 6, when near the Powder Horn Hill, just beyond the bridge to Breed's Island, on the Salem turnpike, a man stepped out from the side of the bank, on the left, and laid hold of both reins, under the horse's mouth, and said—"Your money, or your life, Sir," and presented a pistol. He then let go the reins, came up to me, still on the left side, pointed the pistol to my breast, and said again—"Your money, or you are a dead man." I jumped right on to him, striking both fists in his face—We grappled—as we were falling down, he fired—the shock caused me to let go my hold—I thought at the time I was wounded in the ear, but the ball struck me in the right breast, passed through a box coat, round jacket, vest, shirt, flannel shirt, carried away a buckle, glanced from a horn button, broke the skin, drew blood, and passed out through the great coat—I ran a little way, and fell through exhaustion from the struggle and agitation—drove on to my brother's. My partner made off, on the first demand by the robber, for assistance. I have no doubt the prisoner is the man. When I heard his voice in prison, I was struck with its similarity. He spoke in a very resolute manner.

John F. Payson—I saw the man first on the top of the hill—he canted his head back—walked slow till we got up to him—he stopped close to the step of the wagon, and then advanced to the head of the horse, and said, "Your money, or your life." I said, "what do you mean?" I spoke to Fenno, and started for help—turned into a lane to go to Saunderson's—in the lane saw a horse—after I passed the horse, thought it might belong to the robber—got help at Saunderson's, and returning through the lane, saw the horse, with a man on it, turn out of the lane into the turnpike, and go on tight as he could towards Boston.

John Simonds—On the 9th I let prisoner the same horse again to go to Brighton, about 3 in the afternoon—he returned about half past 7—he had a blue cowhide, resembling the one in the Court [found in Pierce's possession.]

Joseph Edwards—On said evening, about 6 o'clock on my way to Lynn, on the hill beyond Powder Horn hill, a man rode up suddenly—he came out of a lane—leaned over my wagon—his cap or hat nearly touched mine—I recollect his countenance perfectly well—the prisoner is the man—I can swear to him, as clearly as if he was my own brother—I spoke to him—he did not answer—I thought he mistook me for some one else.

John Wright—Keeps on the turnpike, not far from the place of robbery—between 1 and 3 o'clock, the prisoner rode up on a switch tail horse—had a blue cowhide—drank and took a cigar.

John Low—Lives in Chelsea, in Winnesimmet street—saw prisoner going and returning on the said afternoon—said at the time he ought to have a cot to keep his nose warm, as it was red with cold.

Samuel Pratt—About half past 6, near the ferry, a man on a switch tail horse rode up very rapidly, and said, "can I get over the ferry to-night? I must go to Boston in great haste." Told him he could not. Showed a near cut, by the Chelsea house, to Boston—he went off as quick as a horse could go—the prisoner resembles the man.

Charles Sibley—agent of Ferry, on the Boston side—saw prisoner on a horse on the wharf, in the afternoon.

G. W Edmands—on the 9th inst, saw the prisoner riding the mare Harriett—passed my store towards Bowdoin square—he had a blue cowhide resembling the one in court—had seen him on the horse before.

His person, dress, horse, and cowhide, were all identified with the same unqualified certainty. Several witnesses picked the horse out at once in a stable among twenty others, yesterday. He took the matter very coolly, and his deportment in court, was a perfect pattern of propriety.

Mr Lincoln, Warden of the State Prison, recognised Pierce, in the jail yesterday, as the same individual who has been in the prison, under the name of George Walton.

The examination was conducted in his behalf, by ELBRIDGE G. AUSTIN, Esq., who submitted the case, without argument, to the order of the court, and Pierce was remanded to jail.

William Robinson, and William M'Glanchay, arrested upon complaint of Mr Samuel C. Hemmenway, charging them with having stolen two fur caps, valued at $10, each, were examined. The caps were missed on an evening, when, Mr H. thinks, Robinson was in his store. On Tuesday he was informed that two valuable caps had been sold in Cambridgeport, for $3 50 a piece, by one or both of the defendants, they being in company. A warrant was obtained, and Robinson's premises underwent a "searching operation," which brought to light a miscellaneous collection of boots, caps, capes, mittens, stockings, ready made clothing, &c., constituting, as he said, his stock in trade, as a "travelling merchant," but for which he did not happen to possess bills of sale. He at first denied that he sold the caps, but when brought into court admitted that he sold them, and was "willing to swear on his Bible oath, he obtained them of another pedlar, by way of barter."

This assertion was wholly unsupported with evidence—the said pedlar, if not an imaginary, being most certainly an absent personage—and the broken merchants, were committed to jail, where they can, at least, keep their business faculties in order, by swapping with one another, till the next term of the Municipal Court.

In the Municipal Court, Mrs Nancy Palmer was arraigned for keeping a house of ill fame in Piedmont street. She did not contend with the Commonwealth, and was fined $60 and costs, and has left the neighborhood.

Grosvenor—for sale by B. B. MUSSEY, 29 Cornhill.

Recommendations.

Mr S. C. Hare having examined Grosvenor's System of Stenography, gives his unqualified approbation to the invention, and wishes it most cordially success.

RICHARDSON & HARE,
Boston Stenographic and Laurinian Academy, 25 Joy's Buildings. Dec 15, 1834.

(From the Reporter of the Morning Post.)

I have examined and made some experiments with "Grosvenor's Stenography made easy," and find it to be exceedingly simple in design, and expeditious in practice. THOMAS GILL, Jr.

I have given Mr S. D. Grosvenor's new system of Stenography, a slight examination, and think the transverse principle which he has adopted, to be a decided improvement. W. DRAPER.
Teacher in Towndrow's Academy.

Persons purchasing the book, can receive instructions on application to Mr Draper.

PURE BEAR'S OIL may be had by the groce dozen, or single bottle, of A. BOYDEN, Hancock street.

As in all cases, so especially in this, Venders, if they wish to secure the patronage of the public, should be extremely cautious not to sell an article for the Hair which tends to counteract rather than to assist nature.

The virtues of Bear's Oil have been too long tested to need any eulogium; and at this time, no one can doubt of its being the very best article for strengthening and promoting the growth of the Hair. An honest prejudice against the use of Bear's Oil has long existed, arising from two causes—the improper method of purifying it, and the imposition upon the public of a spurious article. That this prejudice may be wholly removed, this article now offered is warranted the pure Oil, rendered more pleasant by the addition of a little Perfume—and the possibility of its injuring the Hair is entirely precluded by the manner in which it has been purified. To prevent fraud, the genuine is enclosed in two wrappers, the inside one being signed Arnold Boyden. aug 15

ORIENTAL SHAVING SOAP.—A new and important discovery!! This article is justly celebrated for its peculiar properties in rendering the Beard soft and easy to cut. It supercedes other soaps on account of its liquid form, making the process of shaving easier and quicker. The article needs no recommendation but one simple trial, which will prove its qualities.

Directions.—Drop three drops into a cup, wet your brush in warm water and rub it, and it will produce an elegant fine lather which will not dry for hours.

J. G. B., grateful for the patronage already received, solicits a continuance of the same which he is determined to merit.

Those that favor, him with their custom may depend upon having their work done in the best possible manner, and on the most reasonable terms. d 4

KNAPP'S BLACKING.

LIQUID, Paste, and Sponge—also a leather preservative, comprising all the kinds now in use, are manufactured and for sale at the Blacking Establishment, head of the Western Avenue.

KNAPP'S JAPAN LIQUID BLACKING, three sizes, in stone jugs. The proprietor has the pleasure to inform the public that from long experience in the business, he has been able to make great improvements in the article, so much so, it is believed, no other kind approaches near it in quality, with the exception of Day & Martin's, which by many is not considered so good. A small quantity, made expressly for retailing, now on hand, and offered to the public on reasonable terms—warraned to give the most entire satisfaction. The smallest orders gratefully received.

KNAPP'S CONDENSED OIL PASTE BLACKING is offered as above, by the single box, dozen, or cask. This article is pronounced by the most competent and disinterested judges to be superior to any other kind now known in this market; and warranted to give satisfaction, or money refunded to the purchaser. It is prepared with oil, and its shining qualities are believed to be unequalled. It will be sold on liberal terms, and to wholesale dealers in the article, the discount will be satisfactory.

KNAPP'S JAPAN SPONGE BLACKING, for sale as above, by the barrel, gallon, or dozen. It is sufficient to say of this article, it sustains the highest reputation of any article of the kind manufactured in this part of the country, and it is the intention of the manufacturer to spare no pains or expense in the preparation of the same.

KNAPP'S LEATHER PRESERVATIVE, for sale as above, (indispensable to every man who regards his health or economy.) First, it renders the leather impervious to water, also makes it soft and pliable, and of course prevents it from cracking, which is the first symptoms of decay in leather. It is believed that one pair of boots with this article applied properly, will wear as long as two with nothing of the kind used on them; and for the preservation of leather, should be used in summer as well as winter. july 22

BROWN'S SELF-INJECTING INDIA RUBBER INSTRUMENT.

BY which removes costiveness and many of its consequent complaints, by the use of warm water only. The instrument is put up in a small pocket book, which may be carried in the vest pocket. It is so simple and portable an article, that its use is decidedly more pleasant than most of the instruments now in use; it has no piston or valve, or any of the complicated contrivance which causes the common instrument to get out of repair It may be used by any person alone with the greatest ease, and it can be administered to patients lying in bed without turning them over or exposing them in the slighest degree. In this respect it has a decided advantage over all other instruments, as it does also in convenience, portability, and cheapness. Price $2 50. Please to observe the signature of the proprietor, William Brown, written with indelible ink on the inside of the India rubber cloth.

CERTIFICATES.

Having employed Mr William Brown's Self-Injecting India Rubber Apparatus, both in private practice and in the Massachusetts General Hospital, I can recommend it as well calculated to answer the purpose for which it is intended: while it is at least as effectual as the common instruments now in use, it possesses the advantages of being in a more portable form, of a more simple construction, and consequently more easily kept in order, and of being afforded at a much less price.

GEORGE HAYWARD,
Jun. Surg. of the Mass. Gen. Hospital.

April 15th, 1833.

I concur in the opinion expressed above by Dr Hayward. JOHN WARE.

U. S. Marine Hospital, April 18th, 1833.

Mr Brown—The domestic instrument I received of you, I find upon a thorough trial to answer the expectations I had previously formed of it. Its simplicity of construction, its portableness, its being free from the liability to injury, and above all, the ease with which lavements may be administered by its means, have induced me to employ the instrument in this institution to the exclusion of all others formerly in use.

C. H. STEDMAN,
Phys. and Surg. U. S. M. H

The following Physicians hereby certify that we have in our practice, used Wm. Brown's Self-Injecting India Rubber instrument, and find it as simple, commodious and effectual an article of the kind as we have ever known; we have, therefore, no hesitation in pronouncing it to be a valuable instrument, and recommend it for general use:—

Marshall S. Perry, John D. Fisher, Samuel G. Howe, John Homans J. G. Stevenson, Joshua B. Flint, Boston; Charles M. Windship, Roxbury.

CORK COLLARS AND SADDLES.

THE AMERICAN CORK COMPANY offer for sale, ground or grated Cork for stuffing horse Collars and Saddles. It has been used during the past season by several Saddle and Harness makers, and it is a non-conductor of heat, has cured several horses whose breasts had become sore and inflamed by wearing the ordinary collars.

It has been proved beyond a doubt, to surpass every other substance that has yet been known or used for that purpose. The fact that it will not become matted and is a non-conductor of heat, must convince every person of its value. But one farther advantage is, these Collars fit the breast of a horse immediately on their application, which is not the case with any other material. A certificate as to the utility of the article, is subjoined.

Boston, Sept. 3d, 1833.

We the subscribers, having made or used the Cork Horse Collars, made from ground or grated Cork, are fully satisfied that they surpass collars made of hair, wool, or any other substance whatever that we have been acquainted with, for the following reasons:—first, the elasticity is sufficient; secondly, it being a non-conductor of heat, does not heat the breast as all other substances do; thirdly, it fits itself to any horse's breast immediately on its application; and fourthly, it has cured every horse's breast we have applied it to, or known it to be done.

WINNESIMMET HOUSE,
CHELSEA.

This new and convenient establishment having been fitted up in as good style as any house of its class in the vicinity, and furnished throughout to correspond with the improved taste of the times, is now open for the reception of company. The situation of the house is airy, fronting as it does on the bank of the Winnesimmet Ferry; the prospect is delightful, and the whole arrangement such, as it is believed, will be approved by an enlightened public. The rooms will be found extremely cool and comfortable during the heat of the summer, and lodgings may be taken by the week or single night.

In the rear of the house are beautiful walks, and open grounds, to a great extent. The view of the country and harbor is very pleasant, and affords an opportunity of spending a warm afternoon in the most agreeable manner.

The bar will be furnished with the choicest wines, liquors, &c.; the larder stocked with the best the market affords, and no pains nor expense spared to make this an agreeable retreat for all who will honor the subscriber with their patronage.

N. B. Parties accommodated on the most reasonable terms. E. GLIDDEN.

MANSION HOUSE—MILK STREET.—The subscriber hereby informs his friends and the public, that he has taken this pleasant situation, and fitted it up for the accommodation of permanent boarders and transient company. Its location, he is sure, must render this house a delightful residence for boarders, especially during the warm months; and his most assiduous efforts will be directed to make their stay within it, at all times, agreeable and happy. The house is entirely insulated, having a wide passage on each side, and a large, open area behind, and near the business part of the city. Persons visiting the city on business or in travelling, will find this an airy, healthy and pleasant retreat while here; and all who favor it with their patronage, will, he trusts, be gratified with the conveniences which it affords.

The bar will be furnished with various kinds of refreshments, excepting ardent spirits.
